

TMD & OROFACIAL PAIN: MANAGING COMPLEX PATIENTS

March 13 - 17, 2024

TMD & OROFACIAL PAIN: MANAGING COMPLEX PATIENTS

This course has no course or educational prerequisites

HANDS-ON PARTICIPATION COURSE

TMD patients present with a wide range of concerns and symptoms from tension headaches and muscle challenges to significant joint inflammation and breakdown. Accurate thorough diagnosis is the first step and we will work through a systematic process of gathering a history, clinical exam, appropriate radiography and using new technology for joint diagnosis. The course will cover traditional treatment options of appliance therapy and equilibration, but also look at utilizing pharmacology, physical therapy and other non-traditional modalities. Whether your goal is to treat all TMD patients in your practice or selectively treat some types of cases while referring others, this course will address what you need to be successful and productive.

This course is designed for the General dentist or Specialist that would like to deepen their knowledge about treating Facial Pain and TMD patients. We have a very strong team that includes 2 Board certified Orofacial Pain specialists, an Oral Surgeon with Specific TMD training, two General dentists that have limited their practice to treating Facial Pain, and a General dentist that uses this knowledge in daily practice.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Creating a link between anatomical structures & signs/symptoms that patients present with to the dental office.
- Develop a diagnostic process to understand the most complex patients and recommend treatment.
- Beyond appliance therapy we will explore therapeutic modalities that include medication, trigger point injections, Botox & more.
- Radiology: When does it add diagnostic value and how to interpret the findings.
- Surgical intervention: What are the current procedures we utilize and when are they indicated.
- How to build a network of specialist support.
